

THE NATION'S REPORT CARD

NAEP 2018 TECHNOLOGY AND ENGINEERING LITERACY RESULTS

North Carolina Museum of Natural Sciences | April 30, 2019, 2:00 - 4:00pm

AGENDA

Welcome and Introduction

Beverly Perdue, chair, National Assessment Governing Board, former North Carolina governor

Video: Technology and Engineering Literacy at McClintock Middle School, Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools

Introduction of Associate Commissioner

James Lynn Woodworth, commissioner, National Center for Education Statistics

Presentation of Results

Peggy Carr, associate commissioner, assessment division, National Center for Education Statistics

Audience Questions

Teacher and Student Impressions of Technology and Engineering Literacy Tasks

Sydney Bowen, 8th grader, Mendenhall Middle School, Guilford County Schools

Tonya Matthews, vice chair, National Assessment Governing Board (moderator)

Michael Renne, technology educator, Mendenhall Middle School, Guilford County Schools

Nya Slike, 8th grader, Reedy Creek Magnet Middle School, Wake County Public Schools

Luke Wieszczyk, mechatronics teacher, Reedy Creek Magnet Middle School, Wake County Public Schools

Audience Questions

How Technology and Engineering Literacy Prepares Students for the Future

Kory Bennett, director, robotics outreach, North Carolina A&T State University

Katrinka McCallum, vice president of products and technologies operations, Red Hat

Linda Rosen, business representative board member, National Assessment Governing Board (moderator)

Javaid Siddiqi, president and CEO, The Hunt Institute

Audience Questions

Closing Remarks

Beverly Perdue, chair, National Assessment Governing Board

Adjourn to Reception on Fourth Floor

#TELRelease